Ciphers and means of signalling

Ciphered telegrams of the Yugoslav Ground Forces, are in groups of 5 figures or 5 letters.

At each hq or unit, ciphering and deciphering of messages is the duty of 1 officer who, in the major part of the cases, is the Political Commissar. The delivery in person of ciphered messages is by messenger furnished with a closed leather case, the key to which is ~~held only~~ held by the commanding officer or Unit sender and the commanding officer or a designated person on the receiving end.

Signalling by radio comes at prearranged times. In general 2/3 times during the day and 2/3 times at night.

At each hq where there is a large unit there is a radio interception station which has the duty to control the signal traffic of the
